

Table of Contents EXCUSES

Congratulations . . . on deciding to take responsibility for your art career 1

Principles of no-excuse self-promotion 3

What does it take? 4

Why me? 5

How to use this book 5

EXCUSE: “I’d rather be in the studio!” 7

Action 1: Define Success for Yourself 9

Vision of success 10

Appear successful 11

EXCUSE: “There aren’t enough hours in the day to do it all.” 13

Action 2: Organize Your Information: It All Has to Go Somewhere 15

Choosing (and using) a database software 16

Your contact list 17

Storing your information electronically 20

Inventory your artwork 21

Creating and keeping paper files 24

Action 3: Live with Routines to Free Your Creative Mind 29

Prepare to implement routines 30

A routine for marketing 33

EXCUSE: "My art speaks for itself." 37

Action 4: Differentiate Yourself: The Power of Your Artist Statement 39

- General guidelines for your statement 41
- Get ready to write 42
- Start writing: Exercises to make you think 44
- Put it all together 50
- Edit your statement draft 51

Action 5: Fill the Rooms: Speak and Teach to Become an Expert 55

- Is anybody listening? 56
- Teach to learn, earn, and create raving fans 59
- Pitch your ideas 61
- Prepare your presentation 63
- Promote your presentation 65
- Show up and deliver 66
- Improve your presentation skills 67

EXCUSE: "I don't know where to begin." 71

Action 6: Create a Portfolio That Impresses the Right People 73

- Polish your image 74
- Start with your art 75
- Design 78
- Résumés 81
- Bios 83
- Business cards 87
- Letterhead 89
- Note cards 89
- Brochures 89
- Catalogs 90
- Articles 91
- Images: Photographs, CDs, and DVDs 92
- Signs 93
- Put together a P.R. notebook 94

Action 7: Claim Your Online Presence with a Quality Website or Blog 95

Your website 96

Start a blog 105

EXCUSE: “I don’t want to bother people.” 115

Action 8: Amplify Your Online Presence with Social Media 117

A strategy for the big three 118

Friends and fans on Facebook 120

Take the lead on Twitter 128

Tips for managing social media 136

Action 9: Send a Newsletter That Begs to be Opened 139

Plan it 140

Name it 141

Fill it 142

Print it 146

Send it 149

Distribute it 149

Email it 150

Check it 155

Shrink it (email updates) 157

Action 10: Take Advantage of Basic Communication: Mail, Email, and Phone 161

Postcards 164

Real(!) letters 165

Email tricks 167

On the phone 172

Holiday tips 174

Action 11: Follow Up, Follow Up, Follow Up! (Did I Mention You Should Follow Up?) 175

When you need a thump on the head 175

Say “thank you” at every opportunity 176

What to write 177

EXCUSE: "I don't live in an art town." 183

Action 12: Be a Media Magnet Instead of Watching Others Grab the Headlines 185

- Which is the media for you? 185
- Become more newsworthy 187
- Create an online media kit 190
- Write a news release 192
- Pitch your story 196
- Media tricks I've picked up 197
- Persistence pays 199
- Interview yourself 200
- Send your news release to everyone but the media 201

EXCUSE: "I'm an introvert." 207

Action 13: Share, Don't Sell to Build Your Contact List 209

- Meet more people (fearlessly) 210
- Join an artist organization 211
- Count your connections 213
- See how easy it is to expand your contact list 214
- Network as if your career depends on it—because it does 220
- Introduce yourself 222
- Remember people 224
- What to do with all those business cards 224

EXCUSE: "I'm not rich." 227

Action 14: Save Money and Generate Buzz on a Shoestring 229

- Low-cost / No-cost promotions 231
- Team up with nonprofit organizations 234
- Donate your art? 235
- Considering a sale? 237

NO MORE EXCUSES 239

Action 15: Plan Your Attack on Paper 241

- Guidelines for attaining goals 242
- Visualize your future 242
- Update your marketing materials 244
- Promotional goals 246
- Create a realistic budget 248

Action 16: Maintain Momentum Day In and Day Out 251

- Nurture a positive environment 252
- Set boundaries 252
- Limit contact with negative people 254
- Keep your plan in front of you 255
- Find a business buddy 255
- Form an art-marketing salon 257
- Create a schedule 257
- Get out of the studio 258

Resources 259

Index 265